exam(s), and the quotas determined by the University. Based on the preliminary evaluation of the application information and documents, candidates may be interviewed by the relevant unit according to the characteristics of the program, if deemed necessary. Admission to departments that accept students through a special talent exam is conducted according to the procedures and principles established by the relevant program for the exam.

(3) If the number of applicants is within or below the quota set by the University, all candidates who meet the application requirements and are deemed suitable by the Department of International Relations will be admitted to the University. If the number of applications exceeds the quota, the International Student Admission Commission evaluates the applicants by considering their graduation grade point average and, if applicable, the program-specific assessment and evaluation criteria. Applicants are ranked from the highest to the lowest evaluation score. When candidates have equal evaluation scores, priority is given to the younger applicant.

(4) An "unconditional enrollment acceptance letter" approved by the Department of International Relations is sent electronically to accepted students who have completed the required prepayment. The original documents must be submitted by the specified deadline. Otherwise, the candidates' acceptance and/or registration will be canceled.
- (6) The registration of students who do not pay the tuition fee within the announced period and/or by the dates specified in the submitted payment plan will be canceled.
- (7) If it is determined at any stage that any of the documents required for final registration are forged or falsified, the student's registration will be canceled retroactively to the registration date, and the University will initiate legal proceedings against the student. If the student has left the University, all documents issued to them, including the diploma, will be canceled. Tuition fees paid by these students are non-refundable.

Language Proficiency

ARTICLE 11- (1) International students admitted to programs where the language of instruction is Turkish must have at least a “TÖMER B2” level or an equivalent score to begin their studies. The approval of Fenerbahçe University TÖMER is required for students to begin their studies. Students who do not have at least a B2 language level are enrolled in the Turkish language course offered by the University. In this case, students are charged a tuition fee for the Turkish language course. The time spent in the Turkish language course is not counted toward the duration of the academic program.

(2) A student eligible to enroll in the Turkish-taught programs of the University, if they wish, may attend the English preparatory class for one year. In this case, students are charged a tuition fee for the preparatory class. The one-year period spent in the preparatory class is not counted toward the duration of the academic program. Students who optionally attend the foreign language preparatory class may continue the program they are eligible to enroll in at the end of one year.

(3) To begin a program taught in a foreign language or with a compulsory foreign language preparatory class, a student must either pass the proficiency exam administered by the Department of Foreign Languages, achieve the score set by the Senate on one of the foreign language exams recognized by the Council of Higher Education/ÖSYM/Senate (provided it is in the relevant language), or successfully complete the foreign language preparatory class. Students’ language proficiency level is determined by the placement exam conducted by the Department of Foreign Languages.

(4) Students who do not pass the foreign language proficiency exam are enrolled in the foreign language preparatory class. A student who passes the proficiency exam held at the end of the first semester in the preparatory class is eligible to continue in the program they were placed in for the second semester.
