FENERBAHÇE UNIVERSITY FANZINE OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES DEPARTMENT

2021 | Issue.1

Learning a foreign language is a journey full of uncertainties for the learners. They try to find their way in a maze of new vocabulary items and language structures. In this journey, they first develop their receptive skills of reading and listening. Just as in learning L1, they are in a passive position, and they receive everything they read and hear. It is true that this coding and encoding process is not an easy task for the learners. When it comes to productive skills of writing and speaking, the task becomes much more challenging. These two productive skills are the most difficult ones to develop among the four skills of language learning.

In this issue, we aimed to present our students' productions in writing. The articles they have written are not mistake-free, yet making mistakes along the learning journey is a natural part of the process. So, we have kept their articles as they are, without making any corrections. Given that our students start the prep school at A2 level, we believe that the progress they have made deserves the highest appreciation.
